Where this legal notice applies

This legal notice applies to

- our own website,
- the partner checkout and partner dashboard,
- every partner page, whether it uses an address provided by us or a partner's custom domain,
- the order page, checkout, thank-you page and portal,
- the Buybox through which you start an order on a partner's own website, and our status widget, which shows you the status of your order on the partner's thank-you page.

Who sells to you

The seller on all these pages is Divinebeingmetatron Ltd.. This company is your contractual partner, issues the invoice and is responsible for payment, withdrawal and your data. This also applies when a page bears a partner's name and logo.

Offered by: the partner's details

Each partner page presents a partner's offering. The partner presents the Readings under their own brand and answers questions about their content. The partner does not sell the Readings themselves and has no purchase contract with you.

An active partner page contains an "Offered by" block. It gives

- the partner's name, or the company name if the partner is a company,
- their address,
- their email address.

Every partner provides these details when setting up their page, in every plan. The partner is responsible for their accuracy. After the contract ends and the specified period expires, this block is removed from the page; the Ltd.'s provider details remain.

Partners' own websites

When a partner embeds the Buybox in their own website or shares a purchase link there, they operate that website themselves. Their own legal notice applies there. Our legal notice applies to the Buybox and to the order page that a purchase link leads to, and to everything that follows with us: checkout, our thank-you page and portal. If the checkout takes you back to a thank-you page on the partner's website, their legal notice applies there. Our legal notice applies only to our status widget, which shows you the status of your order there.

Partners' content

The brand name, the name of the Reading, logo, photo and details under "Offered by" come from the respective partner. We store this content for them. If you consider any of this content unlawful, contact our contact point for users in the section "Contact points under the Digital Services Act".

Contact points under the Digital Services Act

Contact point for authorities: kontakt@soulsystem.app. We communicate in English and Greek, and additionally in German.

Contact point for users: kontakt@soulsystem.app or telephone +357 99 729287, in German and English. You can always reach a person there, never just an AI.
